Co-ed dining initiated

by Nancy Collins

A poll on co-ed dining took place last week by the MGB-AWS combined food committee. The committee's proposal was for co-ed dining Monday through Sunday (with the exception of Sunday brunch which will be served at MGB and Saturday and Sunday at MAP.

Among the women students who voted on this proposal, 540 voted yes, 146 no. A high percentage of the no votes voiced the opinion that they wanted MAP open seven days a week.

Last semester the Food Committee proposed a four-week trial period for "women-only" co-ed dining; alternating weekends between MGB and MAP. This was carried out. A poll of student reaction to this system was to be given after the four-week trial period. But the Board of Trustees said four weeks wasn't a long enough trial period. (The trustees have currently adopted a position whereby "no major changes" are to be made in financial areas at GCC to keep costs down.)

Dr. MacKeen's pre-Christmas mailroom poll had a big influence in gaining headway in co-ed dining. According to these poll results, the women wanted a partial system, and the men wanted a total co-ed dining system. As a result, the Board of Trustees and Administration worked out the proposal and the Food Committee worked on details and the vote.

The Administrative Council has the final word on the outcome of this co-ed dining proposal. (At this writing, they haven't voted yet.)

Dave Longstreet and Nancy Hicks have had great co-operation from both the men's and women's food services.

Preparing for a stirring rendition of "God Bless America," Bill Sparks, Norm Saett, Karl Thompson, and Jeanne Dixon rally the audience for the finale. (Lightholder)

Faith guides Dixon predictions

by Ann Church

Jeanne Dixon has faith in her God, faith in her country, and faith in Grove City College students. This much we did gather from her January 25th speech to a packed audience.

The state of the nation concerned Jeanne Dixon greatly. Although she was not going to speak on Watergate, she changed her mind and pointed to several sources of predictions of this event: Ecclesiastes 315, a prophecy of a Chinese poet 1,200 years ago, Nehemiah 8, and her own revelations on Oct. 21, 1968 of a wiretapping scandal involving President Nixon, show that events of today appear in the script of the past. Strongly she decried the President from the "hissing of wolves" by stating he is "lying to do his part. The stripes of Watergate should not separate us from the love of our great country." Many presidents of the past have been deceived, and this could therefore explain President Nixon's predicament.

Faith that is revealed the future to her remains Mrs. Dixon's foundation. Why, people ask, would the Lord let such things happen? Ass{inated? Because after the killing "we were one of spiritual unity" and we "must have spiritual unity before national peace and world understanding." As to our future in God's hands, "a day will surely come when we will be one with the Lord." Following this was a prediction of the end of the world ped by opening of the Messiah, but of course, this is already recorded, as we know, in that best-seller, the Bible.

There were undoubtedly some high points in Mrs. Dixon's speech which caused us to ponder a moment or so. Comets became her center of fascination, and aside from Kohutek providing us an answer to the mystery of the universe, through inspirings research, a giant comet in the 1950's will rock the earth and establish a new rhythm of rotation. This comet will be destructive to certain areas at earth objects fall upon the earth, and our only hope is advanced scientific knowledge in the next 25 years. Contacting space phenomena, we earth creatures are also blessed with a sister planet which orbits on the other side of the sun. We will be able to see from Jupiter, whenever we get there. Finally, being faced with the decision of war, with a new wave of energy was presented - we will convert solar energy to mankind's use with the help of Russian and Chinese scientists.

SGA proposes new visitation schedule

Last December, the SGA Intervisitation Committee formulated a new visitation proposal. It was passed unanimously by Student Government on December 12. Provisions are as follows:

RESOLVED, that the Student Government shall recommend to the Board of Trustees the following revisions to the intervisitation program:

1. The residents of each dormitory section, meeting the first week of each semester, will be allowed to determine the extent of visitation for their section and the manner of soliciting a representative to be on duty during intervisitation. The following rules will be observed:

(a) No section will have intervisitation more frequently than
(b) The room, name, and telephone number of the section representatives must be registered with the desk clerk before the start of the day's intervisitation.
(c) In a prominent place in each section, the section's intervisitation hours must be posted. Also, SGA representatives must keep students a complete list of intervisitation schedules.
(d) Changes in the section's intervisitation schedule during the course of the semester must be approved by the Director of Student Affairs.

II. Procedures

(a) In dorms having a desk clerk, the host/hostess must sign in his/her guest before going to the host/hostess' room; and the guest should be signed out in the same manner. The host/hostess and his/hers must sign in and out with the section representative.

(b) In dorms not having a desk clerk, it will only be necessary to sign in and out with the section representative.

(c) At closing time, the section representative will, when necessary, remind guests to leave.

III. Problems arising during intervisitation should be reported immediately to the desk clerk and/or the section representative. The desk clerk will in turn contact the appropriate college official.

The proposal will be submitted to the Administration for discussion and possible approval. Action by the Board of Trustees must also be taken before the new program can be implemented.

The race for the SGA presidency between Kelley Donnelly and Keri Thompson has been the most interesting and the most exciting in recent years. Voting is Thursday outside Alumni Lounge. Both candidates will speak Thursday at 9 a.m. in Crawford (instead of in chapel). The election information inside.

Dixon proves "charming"

by Robb James and Terry Lyons

Jeanne Dixon floated into Crawford Social Room on a wave of graciousness and loquacity. Noticing the women reporters present, she immediately made small talk about the effect of the pouring rain on her hair and the Austrian Order of St. Martin pinned to her chest.

Her flowing white evening gown, intentionally or otherwise, added elements of theatre to her already-proclaimed role as soothsayer. Despite the costume and her very evident charm, however, we found Ms. Dixon to be very human.

We were anxious to question her about an article by David St. Albyn Green in The Oct. 27 National Observer. Green, after extensive research into Ms. Dixon's early life, states that she was not born Jeanne, that records indicate she is 14 years older than she claimed to be, and that she had an unacknowledged marriage and divorce.

When queried about these matters, Ms. Dixon artfully sidestepped by saying Green was mistaken. According her, Green's information was about a "cousin," despite strong evidence to the contrary.

Deciding not to pursue this matter any further, we next questioned Ms. Dixon about the nature of her prophecies. We discovered there was a difference between prophecies...
The Stories, a two-year-old band which "Brother Louie" and "Mammy Blue," were past at attempting to impress the easily-unimpressed crowds, sitting off with sparklers (slightly faked) their act was more contrived and as it turned out, not well accepted. Unfortunately, the audience just wasn't right for what they were playing. I think Dusty must have gotten pruned out when the Floyd took his shirt off or because they don't do things for you any more. I don't care what he looked like . . . he could pull that kind of thing to anyone I've seen for a long time.

Rick Rheano, Brian Mandy, and Ken Richie, sit in well on guitar, drums and keyboards respectively. They created quite a a wall of sound. Obviously unsupervised, though, as people begin to trickle out as time wore on. Few moved except to leave. They were something more for looking at than dealing with. They did nine numbers and an encore.

Well, it's like this, Chuck and Sue: if you didn't like the Stories, you wouldn't appreciate.-Black Subhast, Yes, Mountain, Grand Funk, Rumble, Plane, Flash or Johnny Winter or . . . . The only acts which seem to turn Grover on are the old ones.

Someone said, "It's our money, and if we're living in the past we have a right to spend it that way." See you at the mall shop?

Dixon proves charming

continued from page 1

eccles, which are "revealing" from God, and predictions, which are merely "vibrations".

The main difference between the two seems to be that a prophecy always comes true, whereas a prediction may not or simply depends upon the quality of the vibrations and the luck of Jeanne Dixon.

Another curious aspect of Ms. Dixon's prophecies is their political predictions always tended toward the conservative or reactionary spectrum, Ms. Dixon replied, "Because that's the way it is.

This curious similarity between her prophecies and her own political views is interesting, if not indicative of something less than prophecy.

Most interesting of all, though, is Ms. Dixon's implied equation, God equals America. Despite only about 200, the religious and political leaders are generally "blessed" with optimistic predictions.

Not withstanding Ms. Dixon's prophecies of the Kennedy assassinations and the checkmanship manner, we could not help liking Ms.

Students!
You can get a cash loan

- Our new Loans to Students Service is designed especially for you.
- Monthly repayments will be arranged to suit your particular circumstances.
- In or out of 24 hours. We'll be glad to serve you.
- Loans to $500.

Ritter Finance

168 S. Main St.
slippery rock 794-5930.
COLLEGIAN: Kelley, how do you feel that you would make a difference as the Student Government president as far as improving campus life is concerned? If you could say in your experience and your background make you qualified?

DONELLY: I’ve only gone to Wisconsia. I worked for awhile on the campus, but this is the first time I have been involved with the Student Government. I think that I would bring a fresh look to the Student Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would be your priorities in leading the Student Government next year?

DONELLY: Just giving a time to the Student Government, keeping it from being the same as Mickey Mouse. Student Government can mean a little bit more to students. I think we all have different points of view.

COLLEGIAN: How could it?

DONELLY: Why don’t you have to get more involved on an individual basis?

DONELLY: I think that the only way that you can be on Student Government itself, not going out and calling students and trying to talk to them. When Student Government doesn’t do anything, then and only then, will the students become interested. And that’s the first thing I would like to do.

COLLEGIAN: How should SOA go about showing that they’re interested in the students?

DONELLY: The least that Student Government could do is express its own opinion, instead of being a rubber stamp. Even if you have no power to control a certain situation, you should not give up and say “Well then we’re not going to express our real opinion about this.” You must express your opinion, and decide what you have power. You certainly never get any power if you just go along with the present situation.

COLLEGIAN: What do you think you would be the most beneficial thing for City College? You could divide this into two areas: the best change that you could make, and best change practically.

DONELLY: As far as dormitory life, that’s a very important thing. I don’t live in the dormitory, but I know, because I have a student here have ever thought much about quality of life here. They do concern themselves with things like good dining and other such things.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

COLLEGIAN: What would it take to bring about this change in attitude?

DONELLY: Maybe just a Student Government that really thinks. Change in attitude is desirable.

COLLEGIAN: Is there a great need for it?

DONELLY: The only way I can perceive of a “typical Government” is one that represents other college students. The college students that have been elected to this position should be ten years ago. Things were very different then. And I think that people have noticed that they are much more polite than typical college students.

COLLEGIAN: Why do you think they haven’t been as concerned with “the quality of life” as you call it? As concerned with it as they should be?

DONELLY: I think because they accept sometimes something, even though they don’t like it, because they don’t think of themselves as mature people. Everyone thinks of students as immature, but we 18 year olds think you can’t be wrong, and we’re wrong, about certain situations.

People who oppose us might just be telling the truth. We’re just trying to do the best thing to do it in just as good, grumble all the time and not really do anything.

Practically, I think the only way to make a change in attitude is in change in the way you think of yourself and the Government.

Don’t think of developing as a perusal.

DONELLY: That seems to be a trend in college students all over the country because the job market is tight. Particularly if you’re paying as much for an education as you are nowadays. You CAN get the education part of it much cheaper.

COLLEGIAN: One of the things that you mentioned in your letter is that you were talking through the mailboxes was a student legal defense fund. Could you explain what that would work?

DONELLY: That’s exactly explaining because the term would seem to be something else. It has nothing to do with people getting into trouble or crimes or anything like that.

It simply consists of getting outside advice on behalf of students of Grove City on controversial issues on student life. Frankly, that’s one of the problems.

If the Adminstration says you should do a certain thing because they say it’s right, you really require that you do these things a certain way, they may be right, but you can’t do them because you’re growing unless you check with some-bodies.

Because of the recent change in voting age, and in all other kinds of ways, some states have made age 18 the age of major-ty—so strings attached, no exceptions.

Other states do it in a piecemeal way. The state really needs this now. You don’t know what the situation is unless you know it.

COLLEGIAN: How could this happen if you don’t think about finances?

DONELLY: I said in the letter, it should be a contributory fund. It’s only until and constant for two reasons: For one thing, you wouldn’t have to get through Student Government, the funding, how to set it up and that sort of thing. It would bypass a lot of red tape.

Another thing, it means that the government has gathered up some funds that may be marked for other activities. Besides, it may be that the government, that the government wouldn’t approve of having their continued on page 5
SGA candidates explain plans

Dave Longstreet — Social VP
As I look forward to the next two semesters, I am hopeful that Social Committee will be able to offer more activities and provide better quality services to the GCC students who are very concerned with one basic need of the committee: This basic need is the fact that there is a very small percentage of male students who are willing to commit a good deal of their time and energy in planning and working on social activities. We are in need of a committee. We have a great need for topics with carpentry skills.

But most of all we need that individual who is willing to give of his or her time and is willing to work. This semester there is a lot of work to be done: we have dead weekends to fill in; we have to decide if we will have another concert, and if so, we need to be fast for it; we have the May Day Dance, and that means hours and hours of planning and sweat. We have plenty to do. Therefore, I want to take this opportunity to invite anyone who is interested in working on Social Committee to contact me, Dave Longstreet, Box 1223. A notice will be sent to those students inviting them to the next Social Committee meeting.

Charlie McNeill — Academic VP
I have learned quite a bit about GCC in my past two and a half years. First of all, there is the academic Advisory Committee. I have learned about its people, administrators, and its policies and procedures. I have seen firsthand how the Committee works, and we have made some improvements. These are some of my ideas regarding student government. Some changes will not allow more details, so if you have any questions please speak up and if not, I hope you will allow me to continue with what I have started by voting Kari Thompson on Thursday.

Steve Demma — Student Affairs VP
It was suggested that I write a few paragraphs concerning my past experience, which would prepare me for this office and my new ideas and programs. I decided to eliminate the first point because if I was the reader I would rather hear what the candidates thinks and what he is going to do, once elected.

As long as I have been a student at GCC I have given the right to make most of my own decisions. I feel that this institution exists because you and I decided to come here and paid our tuition...

But it has also occurred to me that, as we are often reminded, we are the cream of the crop. So why can't we decide when to go to bed, when to have visitors in our rooms, where to live, in essence, to be treated like one. All the programs which I have presented are directed towards this goal of more responsibility given to each individual.

Student affairs committee has existed for four semesters and the potential has yet to be realized by the students and thus hardly used. This committee was created by the Department of Student Development.

student affairs vice president shall coordinate all student activities," has been established by the Student Government Association.

Kari Thompson — President
The key to a successful student government is vocal support from the students. When there was an Interim between the positions of the College's Editor, a number of students expressed displeasure. The result: The editor was picked through proper procedures. In fall, many students were agitated by the administration's plan for mandatory bicycle registration, and they expressed it at a meeting of the S.G.A. The result: The next day it was announced that registration would be put off and it would not be mandatory. If it came about at all.

Steve Demma

I am all for change in many areas, but I also strongly believe that what is sometimes a good move is to make any progress at all on the GCC campus without working "within the system". So there is no way that we must agree with it or support all of its policies. It is a long road that we have to walk. The thing that I know is that we have come here to the GCC to learn, and to learn from the course the student. I welcome questions on comments and encourage all students to vote Thursday.

Charlie McNeill

Bill Strickland — Academic VP
As a candidate for the Chairmanship of the Academic Affairs Committee (AAC), I believe that my desire to do a good job, my ability to listen to my colleagues with the committee make my best choice.

Having been a member of the AAC for two years, I know that the current president did as well as what it could do. Because I cover Student Government and the Academic Affairs Committee, I am aware of how the AAC operates within the framework of the S.G.A. As for my credentials: I have a Presidential Scholar, a member of Phi Beta Kappa and am presently serving as a seminar leader in the Key- stone Scholars Program. The majors are English and Business Administration.

One problem I've noticed on campus is that many professors and my colleagues with the individual professors. It would be most helpful if, in every class, the teacher, two, or three professors would give brief synopsis of their courses.
and have their pictures appear with the articles. As far as concerts and speakers go, I think that one or two first-rate features a semester are about the right amount of second-rate engagements. The course evaluation conducted this past semester was a good idea, and should be employed against next year so that course descriptions are more accurate. We all want to feel that we're getting a good education here. If elected, I will work hard to make us proud of the educational system that our college provides.

Henry Pearce — Treasurer

Only by working with the administration of this college can Grove City students hope to attain their goals and ambitions for the college. I sincerely believe that I have the ability to deal with the administration in such a fashion as to bring about meaningful and productive relationships between the students and Crawford.

Also, this is a position which will require a period of learning and adjustment before he "knows the ropes" as the SGA treasurer, no matter how much experience the new treasurer may have. As I am the youngest of the candidates for the office, I would be in an excellent position to contribute for a second year, if the students so desire. Thus, the students could look forward to a two year period of qualified leadership, rather than two successive "rookie" treasurers, each of whom would spend a couple of months learning the duties and responsibilities. Furthermore, the biggest responsibility of a member of the executive board of student government is as a representative of the student body.

The treasurer must act on his ideas and innovations as expressed by others. This past semester, the idea of the bookpress which confirmed the opinion that students desire one big concert rather than two or more smaller ones. I voted for this proposal and will strongly advocate its implementation.

Another proposal which I advocated involves re-utilizing the auditorium to a greater degree in determining student needs. The Student Activities Committee, which allocates funds for different organizations and special assemblies, should be a part of the direction of the Student Government Association. This proposal could be handled in a similar way to the concept at Walthurst College, Spalding, Ohio.

Sincerely yours,

Mark C. Kehlbeck — Treasurer

I have enjoyed being a part of the Student Government Association for the last two years. I realize that the Executive Committee provides a necessary core for the organization which helps it to function smoothly. I feel that as treasurer I can contribute to the efficiency of its operations.

Karen Weinstein

Carolyn Campbell — Secretary

The office of secretary of Student Government does not afford the holder a particularly wide position, but that this fact is true. It is an important and necessary office and I am looking forward to the opportunity of serving with the Student Government.

During my two and a half years at Grove City College I have served as managing editor of the Collegian, co-editor of the Crimson, member of Orientation Board, business manager of the Collegian, and secretary of Academic Affairs Committee. My two years with SGA have given me practical experience with the technical functions of the Student Government and has helped prepare me for this office.

It is important for the Executive Committee to present a united student body and the administration. The candidates for executive office have shown their dedication and concern toward the positions they seek. I am optimistic about the working situation with any of the executive candidates. I feel that Student Government has the ability to initiate change.

As secretary I will do my best to help coordinate the various boards of Student Government and to keep the student body aware of its activities.

All photos by Lighthouse.

Kelley Donelly

continued from page 2

money spent on. There could be opposition to almost any kind of proposal. But I think it's such an important thing that you can get organizations--fraternities, sororities, and other organizations--to contribute money to it, and have a separate account at a local bank. The problem would come--but this is the sort of thing that should be submitted to the student body--in selecting the students who would be the trustees of this and in making the decisions of when you're going to use it and what you're going to use it for.

Karl Thompson

continued from page 3

But I think, for example, when the Executive Committee meets in February they will be discussing this local supervision. We think that there should be a student at that meeting. Because what happens is they have a lot of questions and they call them back in a letter and there is a time lag here.

COLLEGIAN: A lot of times we hear that Grove City College students are not aware of what's going on in the football game they're playing, it doesn't really matter what they're interested in something. But to say that there's a "Grover image" I don't think so. It's true that most of the students here don't know how many there are in the world. There are not too many blacks on campus, or Puerto Ricans or Chinese. Except of course COLLEGIAN: "Except of course", no, you've got your own interests. WHITON: "Yes (chuckles). No, there's not the "typical Grover." There with the minority represented. Everybody's got their specific interests. They've got their specific problems. It's just that it's hard to find a black to find out what the people are thinking. There's a lot going on on campus but it might not cover the extreme ranges that you would find at Berkeley or Michigan. COLLEGIAN: I know you said you'd like to comment on Kelley Donnelly's article which was distributed in the mail.

THOMPSON: I would like to pass to the idea of a contributory fund for a lawyer. I don't think that it's necessary to set up an independent fund. Any charge resulting from being counsel could be paid by a miscellaneous part of SGA's budget.

But the idea of hiring a lawyer is not new. For example, when we looked into interfraternity, we made some contacts with the Human Relations Commission. They provided legal counsel and legal help when we addressed a letter to the board of trustees, we quoted various sections of the Human Relations Act. If you're smart, you can turn to the Human Relations Commission. The American Civil Liberties Union and the American Civil Liberties Union, and the American Bar Association, all have free legal counsel.
Social Comm. asks consideration

To the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the Student Government Social Committee. The function of the Social Committee is to bring entertainment to the campus at a minimal cost to the student. However, there are a few that try to pull away from the situation.

At the concert last Tuesday a few people decided that $2 was too much to pay for a ticket and therefore decided to print out their own. The quality of these fake tickets was poor. I admit that these individuals got into the concert, but one waited three hours in the hall before he accomplished it.

For the movie "South Cassidy and the Susdade Kid", the admission price was 25 cents yet people slipped in and hid as if we wouldn't collect their quarter. Some put a penny in my hand hoping I would think it was a quarter.

I realize that these people are only a small percentage of the people on campus, but these few can spoil future entertainment for the rest of the student body. The money we collect go toward supplying more groups, movie marathons, or mixers, to help fill some of the otherwise dull weekends.

The Social Committee has to get volunteers to collect money and tickets as well as do the preliminaries and the clean-up. Ticket taking is becoming quite a hassle and at times we wonder whether it is worth our effort.

If I wanted to I could obtain keys to look up the movie area and extra volunteers to take money, and make sure everyone pays. This is not our purpose. We have obtained this entertainment for your enjoyment and all I ask is that you be considerate.

I really don't think I am asking too much.

Bruce Forbush
Member, Student Government Social Committee

Letters to the Ed.:

The future of man depends on individuals following convictions

To the Editor:

As campus life at Grove City College again begins to take shape, one starts to realize the attitudes which prevail among the students at this institution. One such attitude common to a number of students is apathy.

Many voices cry out that apathy on the GCC campus arises from administration policies. Others whisper that it is due to presidential prerogatives. Yet, few say that it comes as a result of students' compliant attitudes towards themselves as well as towards the college.

Upon hearing this, some will say that this author does not know what he is talking about. However, actions speak louder than words.

For example, Student Government elections are once again upon the Grove City Campus. In the past, scores of students have failed to register their votes. Yet, many times, these same students voice derogatory opinions toward those who have become elected representatives of the student body. It is extremely ironic that happenings such as these occur in an environment which espouses idealism which is in total opposition; a Christian environment.

The possibility arises that a number of students at GCC may perhaps have a clouded understanding of what a Christian atmosphere and its precepts are supposed to foster.

This writer was one such person until he recently listened to a man give an impression of his life, a life which was lived in adherence to Christian principles, yet a life lived in total difference to that which seems to pervade at Grove City College.

The Christian religion espouses a commitment between man and God. It demands complete and unconditional faith and demands an adherence to preordained principles.

In other words, the Christian individual must stand up for what he believes no matter what the opposition.

This ideal, although having deep roots within the Christian experience, is also one which is essential to the maintenance of the individual human being no matter what one's personal view of religion. For, when one sacrifices one's values, one sacrifices one's self.

An individual must therefore follow his personal convictions, whatever they might be, rather than the whim of the crowd. It is upon this basis that man has progressed and it is upon this premise that man's future depends.

Thomas J. Roda

by Chip Mander
Contributing Editor

Editor's note: These are thoughts that Chip's had in his first days of trying to pull together a campaign organization in Pennsylvania's 44th senatorial district.

It's been two weeks in the "real world" and I see things that were not clear to me in my more sheltered existence. And at the same time, things that I considered unshakably fixed in my mind and thinking, no longer are.

I had always felt I would be immune to the working people's syndrome where they get so caught up in their work that they lose track of the more simple pleasures—you know, the sitting there and doing nothing. I don't miss it—I mean that sitting there and doing nothing — until I sit there and do nothing!

There's so much to do, that I'm afraid to let up because I might get so far behind the main will set and need to worry about. This campaign, for me at least, is suspended in somewhat of an infinite time spectrum.

That's not to say I don't feel preserved, it's just that I have no accurate way of estimating whether I'm behind or ahead of an imaginary point I should be at this time as far as organizational attainment. I never ran a campaign before, so I have no past time-table against which to measure this one.

Perhaps I should be grateful for my inexperience. All the "redo" keep emphasizing that a manager or coordinator could start a year before the election and still not have enough done. That's why I appreciate it being my first time—I don't know how badly I'm botching things.

One thing that perplexes me is that everyone has been involved in politics, one type of mayhem or the other, has a 30 minute monologue on the extreme diversity of campaign strategies. There is nothing just which gimmicks work, and which don't, how to swallow the campaigns in funds, how to make the best use of this inevitable Fort Knox, what leashes to capitalize on, which to steer clear of, and generally how to organize and GREEP up on one's political opponent.

It strikes me as peculiar that each of these political soliloquies comes in the same self-assured torrent, but with totally different convictions as acquired from their "heavy" or "instrumental" participation in some else's campaign.

"If only the candidate had followed more of my advice," my sage inevitably continues, "he (or she) would be in office now." Each of these lecturers ends with something to the effect of, "Well, son, in politics there are no experts," but their self-satisfied smiles suggest otherwise "but if you're wise, you'll do it this way." After each of these amably volunteered testimonial, I shied myself for sitting there speechless and bobsheving my head up and down in agreement in just the same way I had with the earlier "pros.

"Wait," I rationalize, "you use jargon and possibly upsetting our personal political postulates. Besides, I don't have the experience to back up my personal hypothesis at this point." I can't wait until this campaign is over—win or lose—I'll be able to talk a great campaign. I'll be another "expert."
Schwab scores one thousand by Tom Brown

The Grove City Wolverine baseball team opened the key-way point of the 73-74 campaign and found themselves in possession of one of the hottest records in the Pennsylvania college ranks. Head Coach Schwab is on by the Barr men to more than better last year’s 7-15 mark.

The Wolverines barely got by a tough Susquehanna team, 62-51, after having led by as many as 12 points. The margin of victory was elusive as the Suns came back from the relaxed Hand of freshmen to within five points and deleted both ends of a one on one foul situation to notch the victory. The game was played on senior night and the fans might indicate. Neither team played very well, and numerous errors were made. Grove City built up a seven point lead at the half and appeared to be in complete control until Susquehanna’s final last minute surge. Burnt free throws then notched the triumph. Three veteran starters led the scoring attack as “Preach” Perreault was the passcutter with fifteen. Big Joe Schwab with fourteen and Jeff Ross with ten. Schwab became the eighty player in Wolverine basenball history to go over the 1000 point barrier in a career.

The Wolverines traveled to Erie, Pa., to face the Penn State-Northwestern. The much taller and tempered Grove had a field day as they easily disposed of Northwestern with a 79-63 lashing. All eleven varsity players scored in the scoring, with center Jeff Ross leading all scorers with fifteen points, as grove was outscored by eighteen in twelve minutes of play. Jim Perreault followed with thirteen to be the only other player in double figures.

The Grove City wrestling squad shot out CMU last Saturday.
The Grovers mustered five wins and two decisions, and the visitors were forced to forfeit the 118, 134 and 142 matches, as CMU was able to come on strong behind Kevin White piled McCurdy of CMU in the third period, the only match in the fly weight division.

Mark McElmurry followed with a decisive second period pin of his case. Freshman Tom Taylor won his first collegiate match with an 8-3 decision over Smock, and freshman Dave Palmer and Jeff Bell followed with pins. Jim Ritter scored a third period pin over Loefler of CMU in the 190 class match and Doug Kurl, wrestling unlimited, outscored Williams in a 4-1 decision.

The Grovers met a more professional foe in Their the following Tuesday, coming on the losing end of a 21-18 score.
In the fly weight, both Mike Bacis and Kevin White lost by falls. Jim Yankie wrestled an aggressive and exciting match losing his opponent in the second period.

The Grovers and the Mounties play at the'renowned

KOBE 834.

The Wolverines return to the arena last Thursday to take on the All-American League. The Eagles cherished the contest with a 3-12 record, but managed to pull the game out of the fire by defeating Grove City 66-60. Some excellent outside shooting by the Wolverines, particularly by Jim Perreault, esabled the Grovers to pull away by six, 36-24 at the half. Perreault hit on seven of the nine shots from the field in the first half to lead the attack with 10. Grove City couldn’t buy a basket. Alliance took advantage of our “cold hand” to go ahead by nine points midway through the game. Center Jeff Ross missed the game due to illness and his absence was sorely missed under the boards. Captain Fred Schwab was the big gun for the Grovers with twenty points. Perreault, after his big first half, could manage only two in the second half to finish with sixteen.
Zeller led all scorers with twenty-five points.

Schwab was the big gun for the Grovers with twenty points. Perreault, after his big first half, could manage only two in the second half to finish with sixteen.
Zeller led all scorers with twenty-five points.

IMO play resumes
by Keith Pancost

Returning from semester break, the IMO got underway with a flurry of basketball action. The closest game of the season was the Hoosiers 88-85 victory over the Keggers. This loss was the first for the Kegger team. On the other end, Masters of Reality destroyed Dyloke by an unfavorable 81-10 score. Competition in the JAA League seemed to fall flat as Grove City simply battled too much for them.

Grove City College swimming is also being recognized nationally these days. The recent compiling of best times shows several local swimmers in with the best in the nation.

Jim Drummond is ranked number one in the 100 freestyle with a time of 22.6 and freshman Kevin Finley is tenth in the same event. Grove City swimmers took the 100 yd, freestyle, Drummond is number one with a time of 23.2. The 400 yd, freestyle relay is ranked fifth with a 3:24.10 time. Bob Rob Frey from Grove City attacked in the 200 yd, butterly: West-ton 10th with a time of 21.60 and Frey at 23.60. How-however, against W&J, Frey lowered

Grove City Hardware

GCCC won a 5-1 decision over their opponent. Tom Taylor lost a four point decision, and Dave Palmer came back with a second d period pin. Danny O’Neill then lost another four point decision to Cook of Thiel. Jim Ritter remained undefeated in the 190 class with a close decision over Follett, and freshmen M. Bebich was pitted in the unlimited match. This defeat dropped Grove City to 1-2 on the season. Grove City’s next match will be against Bethany College tomorrow night at Bethany.

We are the Guitars Friend, a mailorder guide to acoustic instruments & accessories.
We carry guitars such as Martin, Guild, Gibson, Ovation, Yamaha; Hofner harps, dulcimers, recorders, banjos, books and more — and discount 25%.
Our catalogues will be sent out free upon request.

GUITARS FRIEND
1240 Brogan
Stockbridge, Mich.
49285
Pictures talk.
Some little boys don’t.

Some inner-city ghettos have special schools. For little boys who don’t talk.

Not mute little boys. But children so withdrawn, so afraid of failure, they cannot make the slightest attempt to do anything at which they might fail.

Some don’t talk. Some don’t listen. Most don’t behave. And all of them don’t learn.

One day someone asked us to help.

Through Kodak, cameras and film were distributed to teachers. The teachers gave the cameras to the kids and told them to take pictures.

And then the miracle. Little boys who had never said anything, looked at the pictures and began to talk. They said: "This is my house." "This is my dog." "This is where I like to hide." They began to explain, to describe, to communicate. And once the channels of communication had been opened, they began to learn.

We’re helping the children of the inner-city. And we’re also helping the adults. We’re involved in inner-city job programs. To train unskilled people in useful jobs.

What does Kodak stand to gain from this? Well, we’re showing how our products can help a teacher—and maybe creating a whole new market. And we’re also cultivating young customers who will someday buy their own cameras and film. But more than that, we’re cultivating alert, educated citizens. Who will someday be responsible for our society.

After all, our business depends on our society. So we care what happens to it.

Kodak
More than a business.